MERRITT & WOOD, successors to Davis, 925 Pennsylvania Avenue, exhibit in their portraits, their work is simply perfection. No one should visit Washington without calling at present.

The Jordan Suicide.

Mr. W. K. Jordan, the photographer of 325 Eleventh street southwest, who shot himself in the head with suicidal intent yesterday afternoon, as stated in THE CINCINNATI, died about an hour after the shooting. For about a month his family and friends have been aware that his mind had been failing, and yesterday they made an effort to get him into St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Dr. Messrs. G. H. Goldsmith and Dr. J. Davidson accompanied him in a cab to the asylum, but they could not have him admitted as a private patient, and they were returning in a taxicab to the hospital when he ran off to Mount Hope, near Baltimore, where he relieved them of further anxiety on his account by shooting himself.

The cab had crossed the Anacostia Bridge, and while on Eleventh street northeast he drew his pistol from his pocket and sent a bullet through his brain.

The Coroner has deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Funeral of Andrew F. Carlin.

The funeral of Andrew F. Carlin took place from his late residence, Carlin Springs, Alexandria County, Va., yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and was largely attended by friends of the deceased in this city.

The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Hadaway of Dutin Chapel in this church.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Howard Young, William Bailey, Gibson Terrell, George Head, Horace Bailey and George Hough, all members of the same family in the cemetery, about twenty yards from the residence. Mr. Carlin had served the people of this city as a dryden for over thirteen years and had built up a large trade, which will be continued by Mr. Henry F. Ryan in the interest of the sister of the deceased.

Thrown from a carriage.

Another serious runaway accident occurred on the Avenue this morning about 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Samuel M. Bryan and her little son were in a carriage at Fifteenth street and the Avenue, when the horse ran away and struck a man, the latter fell, the teeth knocked out, and was otherwise hurt, but Mrs. Bryan escaped injury.

Cause of the Revolt.

There has been another revolt among the Russian students. The cable omits particulars, but it can be confidently asserted that the reason of the outbreak was the refusal of the University faculty to furnish them with any more of "Thierry's whisky." It can be found at 18th F street.

Amherst.—The attention of every one who examined the magnificent stock of furniture displayed on one floor by George Breithart's, 917 F street. The latest styles at the lowest prices.

What a grand, great country this is with its vast territory, its big rivers, its pretty women, and its Yule Mid-Victoria—Salvia Oil.

IMPORTED LIQUORS.

American Wines and Malt Liquors Sold at Fancy Prices.

In a store down town, the walls of which are lined with wine barrels, a large business is conducted with which very few persons are familiar. It consists of bottling American wines, beers, gins and other liquors, and affixing foreign labels.

"Think we would be detected in it, would you?" observed the proprietor to a Star reporter the other day. "That is nearly impossible. The truth of the matter is, we sell few Americans know anything about wine, except drinking it. The comes not so much from their inability to judge of the relative merits of different wines as their inability to find real wines to give them a standard to judge by. Nearly all the restaurants give American champagne, American port, claret, sherry and ale for the imported stuffs. Nearly all the barrooms sell domestic wines in imported bottles, and a private table that is better supplied. We have a pricing establishment where all kinds of foreign labels are imitated, not perfectly, but near enough to deceive any one, but the keenest expert. I maintain that the quality of our goods is equal to almost any that are imported, and if it were not for the prejudice of the public I would like to sell it open and under our labels, but it can't be done at present."

"I'll venture to say that you couldn't tell the difference between our Bass ale and the real stuff, even if you had the two bottles side by side. I have orders daily from some of the richest New York families for cases of assorted wines, with the best known imported labels on them, and at a recent public fete in this city all the fine wine came from our cellar, although no one could have believed it from drinking them."

"Several months ago a rich Wall street banker, whom I call Mr. A., offered to wager another wealthy financier, whose name begins with B, that he had the best wine on his table. Mr. A. had long been one of my most regular customers, and, as the two gentlemen frequently dined with each other, a little rivalry grew between them upon this point."

"Mr. B. accepted the wager, and a dinner party was announced at Delmonico's. Each was to furnish a case of wine and the company was to choose between the lots."

"As soon as this was decided upon Mr. A. came to me and ordered me to bottle it in the best American champagne and have it very well labeled. The old-time dodger, artfully dressed, was brought on, and met with general approval. Mr. B.'s wine was also very popular, and when the party came to decide between them they could not award the prize to either contestant."

"Why was that?" asked the reporter.

"Our wine goes so nearly like Imogen wine!"

There was no import wine. B. got his wine from me too."

OUR DEPT. FOR TRIMMED HATS.

The unusual activity in this department convinces us of showing the correct styles at all times, and in all departments. We command skillful and polite hands who take pride in showing everything that is now new and attractive. If you are in the market for a full and modest hood, it affords very funny and well worked up, and will do much credit to your appearance.

ALLARTH'S OPEN NOTE.

"May Blossom," which is announced as the attraction at Albaugh's Opera House next week, will be remembered as one of the prettiest and most effective mini-dramas that was given here last season. The story is a charming one, and made a very good and lasting impression. Miss George Carvan, Bell Maguire and others, who were the chief attractions of the piece last season, will be in the cast this week, and there is no doubt that a brilliant and fashionable audience will assemble in the theater to witness the performance.
